IS HEREBY OFFERED FOR THE production and delivery to the undersigned of the original Deed of Conveyance from the Hudson's Pay Company to Pandelles Maylederos of Town Lot. No. 392, dated in or about the month of July 1838, and which Deed is now required for the purpose of Registration.

hear some such question as the above asked in, if anything, a half despondent tone by some of our citizens. What with strapped miners, and immigrants from Australia and England, the country would seem to many to be overcrowded, and all the avenues for employment filled up. New arrivals soon become infected with the feeling prevailing among some people here, and without waiting to sift the matter to its foundation, take all the discouraging appearances to be the only side of the picture, and think the sooner they are out of the country again the better for themselves. We have no desire to hinder men from going wherever they can do best-each man is himself the best judge of his own affairs and what course he ought to pursue; but we would ask men to weigh the matter well before they make up their minds to leave this Colony. There is truth in the old adage, that " a rolling stone gathers no moss;" and few there are who have knocked about the world for any length of time but can vouch for it. When one comes to take into consideration the expenses of traveling, the time lost, and the risks of doing no better in another country, it becomes estion whether or not it would be more profitable in the end to remain here, submit to a little inconvenience for a while, with the cer-tainty of ultimately doing well, than to leave tainty of ultimately doing well, than to leave the place for another in no better condition. A great many men have left both Colonies this summer for San Francisco. It was to be expected that Americans, upon their not suc-ceding at Cariboo, would return to their own country. Their predilections for their own institutions would be quite sufficient to induce country. Their pictures loss for their own institutions would be quite sufficient to induce them to take that step, even though they saw a very cheering prospect before them. But the case is otherwise with people from other countries—with the natives of Britain and British Colonists in particular. The latter will find the institutions of this Colony and British Columbia much more congenial to their ideas of law and government. Englishmen more especially will not have to encounter here the prejudice which they would very likely meet among many Americans in the States on account of their nationality. Moreover, it must not be forgotten that if there are many people in this place seeking employment, there is a far greater proportion in California in the same plight. There cannot be less than 50,000 persons there who know not how they are to pay their board from one week to the other. San Francisco itself, has been the receptacle this year of a great number of immigrants from the Eastern States, who will be sure only

San Francisco itself, has been the receptacle this year of a great number of immigrants from the Eastern States, who will be sure only to add to the already over-stocked state of the labor market by remaining in that city. We can easily see, then, that many who leave Victoria for San Francisco are only—to make use of a trite expression—jumping out of the frying pan into the fire.

Although our gold mines have not rewarded many as yet for the labor and money expended upon them, contrary to the anticipations formed of them this spring—and, as a consequence, the country is somewhat under a cloud for the present—yet any man who has taken pains to acquire any information respecting them, must be satisfied that the gold is there in abundance, and will ere long realize the expectations ance, and will ere long realize the expectations formed of its richness. Fill then we must ex-pect to labor under some disadvantage, but ultimately all will be well; and those who remain here will have no cause to regret it. Even with all the drawbacks that can be urged against the country at present, no one can for a moment be in doubt as to its superiority over the old country and many new ones in respect to the facilities it affords to men of moderate expectations to attain a men of moderate expectations to attain a competence. By boarding themselves, they can easily live at 50 cents a day, and taking wages at the low standard of $1, there is a margin to be saved. But when they come to get $2 50 per day as laborers, which many have been getting this summer, they would soon be able to acquire property. Of course, good mechanics are in a still better position. It is to be regretted that so many of our new population are men who have been brought up either as clerks or at no employment whatever. The former class will have to change up either as clerks or at no employment whatever. The former class will have to change their occupations for a while until there is a greater demand for their services than at present exists. They must not be afraid or ashamed to take hold of the first thing that turns up, by which they can honestly make a living. It is nothing new in this country for gentlemen to learn how to use the axe, the pick and the shovel. We have heard of French noblemen doing good work on the roads of California, without thinking it a disgrace.

But while we think there are many things

But while we think there are many things which ought to induce men to stay and settle here, we cannot be blind to the utter inca-pacity shown by the Government to meet the pacity shown by the Government to meet the wants of the situation. Although loans have been authorized to be negotiated, and although the money could never have been more advantageously expended than at present, yet we might as well have had no such loan authorized—no government at all in fact to carry out the object for which it was intended—for all the benefits the country has derived from their movement. Even the Legislative Council are beginning to awake to the fact. Even they think "the Government should if possible commence without delay, by means of the loan already authorized to be made, the construction of such public works, and especially roads, tion of such public works, and especially roads as may be deemed most urgently required."
What doubt can there be of the ability of the Government to give employment to all that require it? If they have not raised money by the loan, let them issue debentures payable with interest at a low rate upon the completion of the loan. If the United States can afford to carry on an expensive war by means of Treasury notes—if other Colonial Governments can pay for a vast system of public works by government debentures as a common way of proceeding--why can't our Government bestir itself to do the same immediately, and while effecting necessary im-provements, help to retain our present popu-lation? Such debentures or Government scrip would be equivalent to paper money, and could easily be converted by its holders into coin. We have not the slightest doubt but that the Government might go farther. It might pay for labor partly by grants of land, subject to certain conditions of settlement to prevent speculation, and a part by scrip as above mentioned. Whatevor is to be done must be done quickly. We cannot permit time to pass without insisting that

The British colonist ball strain every nerve to retain people in the Colony till our resources are properly made known and truther developed. The careless "let-alone" style of doing business, which has acted like a night mare on the progress of this Colony, must be dropped at once, and a liberal, well-directed and vigotous course of action tucks its place. The Government must not think that the people can be satisfied with the mere locating of a few settlers in Comax and Cowichan. Every one can't go there. We have men of all callings who must be enabled to fill the mosnic of society. Money must circulate, and the Government must do it, even if it should go in debt for it. The normous natural resources of both colonies, and the certainty of a great future, would amply fustify such a step.

What will our New-Comers Do?

Scarcely a day passes that one does not hear some such question as the above asked by Auction

HEAVY WORK IN MARYLAND!

The U. S. revenue cutter Shubrick, Capt. Pease, arrived from Olympia yesterday afternoon, bringing telegraphic news from the east to the 16th inst., from which we learn that the rebel army under Lee and Jackson had been attacked and driven to the Potomae River by McClellan. They were attempting to cross at Harper's Ferry, but heavy firing having been heard at Washington from that direction, it is supposed that the rebels were caught between McClellan's pursuing legions and Franklin's and Key's Federal divisions stationed at the ford to prevent them recrossing.

The rebel ammunition trains, with several Md., and the army fled in great confusion for the Virginia side. The fighting seems to have consisted of heavy skirmishes. No regular battle had taken place.

The rebels got but few recruits in Mary.

their hands upon.

The rebel army that menaced Cincinnati are reported outflanked by Buell, and flying south in great confusion.

Great distress exists among the southern

TOWN COUNCIL.

FRIDAY EVENING, Sept. 25, 1862.

The Council met at 7:15 o'clock. Present His Worship the Mayor and a full board, Communication from Robt, Homfray, asking appointment as City Surveyor: from J. A. Munsen, praying to be appointed solicitor fruuner; for steamers, hotels, etc.; from J. C. Colquhoun, asking appointment as City Inspector. Laid on the table
Councillor Stronach's motion for the appointment of a committee to ascertain where and on what terms suitable apartments might be obtained for the use of the Board, was taken up and seconded by Mr. Hicks.

Mr. Stronach urged the necessity of procuring suitable rooms for the Board, and stated that the Court room was entirely unsuited to the purpose.

The Mayor took a like sour-grape view of the case and denounced the room as altogether unsuitable.

The resolution was passed unanimously.

Mr. Copland's inquiry as to whether the Mayor or Council had given authority to any party to break the ground of Churchway, etc., was next considered.

break the ground of Churchway, etc., was next considered.

Mr. Copland moved its adoption, and said that the chain-gang had been put to work by Mr. Pemberton, when the Incorporation Act clearly gave the Council full powers over the streets. Neither Mr. Pemberton nor any other person had any control over them. He also asked where the money came from to support the prisoners; thought Humboldt street wide enough already, and if work was done on the streets at all let it be on the road to the springs. True, Humboldt street led to Mr. Pembetton's residence, but it was no less a waste of public money to lay it out on that road. The gang should be put under the control of the city, and the Council should root out the rotten state of things which had existed so long. He wanted the Ordinance Committee instructed to attend to the business. tend to the business.

Mr. Searby said that the Council had no control over the gang or the funds, and that they were improving the thoroughfare by removing a very bad piece of rock. They were doing good; leave bad piece of rock. They were doing good; leave them alone.

Mr. Hicks said it was the duty of all persons who wished to interfere with the streets to apply to the Council for power first. If the chain-gang could go to work and cut up the streets when they pleased the Council might as well cease its labors. He offered a supplemental ordinance fining or imprisoning any person interfering with any of the highways in future, at the pleasure of the Mayor or presiding officer; to come up at uext meeting.

Mr. Stronach's motion for a copy of the settlement between the Hudson Bay Company and the Home Government, concerning the town-site, was passed.

Mr. Copland, from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported the total anticipated revenue at $55,738, and recommended that in view of strentening the position of the Conneil, a committee be appointed to draft amendments to the charter. theming the position of the Country, committee the appointed to draft amendments to the charter.

Mr. Lewis, seconded by Mr. Stronach, moved that the report be received, and copies thereof furnished members.

The By-law Committee was allowed further time.

Mr. Stronach alluded to the necessity for taking some steps to protect the the town from condagration resulting from defective stove-pipes or flues, and Mr. Lewis assured the Board that that matter would be fully met in the By-Laws' Committee re-Mr. Hicks gave notice that at the next meeting

Mr. Hicks gave notice that at the next meeting he should move for the appointment of Assessor.

Mr. Lewis gave notice of a motion for the election of a City Surveyor at the next meeting, and said that a committee should be appointed to define the Surveyor's duties.

Mr. Copland said that a committee was already appointed, and suggested that if Mr. Lewis would only study that book [?] a little more, there would not be an anny nuncessary motions brought for

Mr. Lewis retorted that he was not here to answer Councillor Copland's catechism, and hoped that he would study the rules of common courtesy and of gentlemanly conduct more, in which case there would be fewer unpleasant occurrences transpiring in the Board.

Mr. Hicks gave notice of a motion for a committee to define the duties of City Assessor.

Mr. Searby gave notice of a motion that at the next meeting the Council resolve itself into a Committee of Ways and Means.

ARRIVAL OF THE " CALEDONIA."-The steam er Caledonia, Capt. Frain, arrived from New Westminster last night with 40 passengers and a small amount of gold dust.

LATEST BRITISH COLUMBIA NEWS

From Mr. G. B. Wright, who came down on the Caledonia last night, we learn that his wagon road is progressing rapidly. It is now finished within twelve miles of Bridge Creek and a party of men are working beyond that hi point. Eighty-five miles are open for wagon traffic, and in two weeks about one hundred and ten miles will be finished. Mr. Wright thinks that by the 1st of November the road will be completed as far as Williams Lake; and if his men are able to work till the 15th of the same month that they will reach Mud

The steamer Enterprise will be finished this fall, but not launched. Capt. Thos. Wright is at Alexandria to superintend the arrangement for spring trade and to make an examination of the superintend of the supe nation of different points in the river during its low stage.

The Governor is on his way to Lilloot, where he will probably await Mr. Wright's return, to make an examination of his wagon road, and will return by the Lytton route.

Mr. Fred Rhoda, a packer, left the Forks of Quesnelle on the 6th of Sepember, where he sold a load of flour at 30 cents per lb., on credit. He could have got no bid for eash as money was scarce and stocks full. The traders at the Forks asked 40 cents per lb.

Mr. Rhoda has prospected in the diggings all summer and owns three claims on Anther Creek, which he has forsaken as worthless. The creek is nearly descried—a worthless. The creek is nearly descried—a few men holding on to their claims with the idea that they will yet be able to sell out. The Campbell claim on Lightning Creek is said to be the only one there that is pay-ing anything worth while; the others are spoken of as failures.

On Williams Creek, the rich claims maintain their previous reputations, and are pay-ing quite as largely as ever. Five or six new claims are reported as struck on this creek recently. Marshell's train of 40 animals has reached Alexandria with a cargo of goods for Peace River. The goods will be boated from Alex-andria to Peace River. It is said that a company of miners have struck good dig-gings on that stream and expect to winter

The number of men in the diggings is variously estimated from 800 to 1500.

A few claims on Lowhee Gulch are paying very richly.

Freight from Lillooet to Quesnelle has declined to 15 cents per pound. Packers have offered to take goods at that rate for cash. Contracts have been made to pack goods to Williams Creek for 40 cents pound—the packers to wait for their pay until the goods are sold. The weather in the mines was dry and pleasant when Mr. Rhoda started to come down. A large number of men were on their way down to Victoria.

ARRIVAL FROM SAN FRANCISCO .- The threemasted schooner Monitor arrived from San Francisco yesterday morning, in cleven days. She brings 20 passengers, also a full cargo of assorted merchandise, consigned to Pickett & Co. We received by this arrival San Francisco papers to the 14th inst, but the news is no later than that received overland on Friday. The clipper ship Caroline Reed, and barks Onward and Adelaide Cooper, were up for this port. The Onward was nearly full and would sail in a day or two. Under the inand would sait in a day or two. Onder the fluence of the strong southerly winds which have prevailed for the past ten days, she is due at any moment. No steamer was advertised for this port. The sale of the Broderick estate came off on the 13th, when $170,000 worth of property was disposed of.

THE COMAX SETTLERS .- About 25 names are registered for Comax, and as Government is desirous of taking advantage of the present fine weather to locate those settlers who may wish to take up land at Comax, it is more than probable that the list will be closed today, as we understand that the gunboat will leave for the District on Monday next. It would therefore be as well if those persons who are desirous of joining the expedition were to register their names at as early an were to register their hour as possible to-day.

THE LAND OFFICE .- It is asserted that a most disgraceful state of affairs exists at the Land Office. The Surveyor-General is absent at Cowichan, and no person competent to give information as to lands has been left in charge. Dozens of newly arrived immigrants desirous of settling on land are turned away daily, unable to obtain any satisfaction as to the most advantageous sections in which to pre-empt. Is not such a state of affairs disgraceful in the extreme. extreme?

"The jury having been empanneled and two supplementary jurors having been chosen by lot, to supply the places of any who might, from illness or other causes be disqualified from sitting out the trial, the indictment was Scarcely had the last word dropped from the officer's lips than Dumollard rose and beckon-ed eagerly to his counsel M. Lardiere. The latter approached. "There is a draught of air somewhere," said the prisoner, "which really annoys me excessively. Can nothing be done to remedy it?"

This important matter arranged to the pris-

This important matter arranged to the prisoner's satisfaction, the list of witnesses—seventy in number—was rend aloud—all (save one, deceased.) answering to their names.

Next came the interrogatory; that doubtful feature in the otherwise excellent system of French criminal precedure. It was conducted, however, in the present instance, with dignity and to invest. Durallard was questioned on and fairness. Dumollard was questioned on his domestic relations. "Your father was a Hungarian?"

"What became of him?"

"I cannot say. (Then, hesitatingly:) If you insist upon my explaining, I will."

"Certainly. You are here to explain."

"My father was well-to-do in his own land.
My mother told me that in 1814 we went into Italy-to Padua. There my father was taken prisoner by the Austrians. We never saw him again."

You have been convicted of many offences? "Once, only."

"How, once only? We have here the record of two convictions, at least. You have no means, yet you do no work. You have borne the character of a vagabond, at war with society." "Since I became the associate of those two wretches (the fictitious persons), it has, indeed, been as you say."

"You live in singular privacy, forbidding your wife to know her neighbors: a rule so well observed that, before your arrest, the mayor of your commune knew nothing of you. You returned to your house at unusual hours, using a pass-word, 'Hardi,' as one of your neighbors will prove.' "I may have done so, but not in the sense "That is false. If I had had such a purpose I should not have led her to any place where any alarm might be heard. "But why lead her thither at all?"

"My employers said to me, 'Eyes are upon you of which you know nothing. If you betray us you are lost.' That alarmed me."
"You have destroyed many of the effects of your several victims. Why have you allowed so many to remain?"
"I preserved those articles." replied the so many to remain?"

"I preserved those articles," replied the prisoner, with perfect gravity, "for the sake of the relations of the decased."
Dumollard being removed, his wife was brought forward. There was nothing noticeable in her appearance or demeanor.

She stated in reply to various questions, that her husband had twice brought her articles of dress, which he described as the property of women murdered by him. She had noticed the blood-marks, but said nothing to her husband, with whom she lived on mdifferent terms. He was frequently absent at night, returning before dawn and using a watchword as stated. Though cognizant of his guilty practices, she continued to live with him, being completely cowed by his

The production in court of the stolen effects was the next scene of the legal drama. These were brought forward in two immense chests, bound with iron clasps, and sealed.

"Ah, tiens?" murmured the assembly, Now for the wardrobe of M. Dumollard?" The articles were sorted, and placed chronologically in heaps. There were seventy handkerchiefs, filty-seven pairs of stockings, twenty-eight scarls, thirty-eight caps, ten corsets, nine gowns, and a multitude of miscorsets, time gowns, and a minitude of mis-cellaneous objects.

Witness after witness then entered the box, and delivered their testimony with sur-prising terseness and lucidity. Until the evidence of each was complete, no inter-ruption was offered, unless when the Presi-dent, observing that the witness was merely corroborating matters already a many denosed corroborating matters already amply deposed to, recalled the speaker to facts bearing more immediately on the case.

Owing to this, and perhaps in some degree to the French tacilities of expression, the trial proceeded with great rapidity.

The sixth witness, Louis Cocket, was an odd-looking little man, with a very excited manner. He was Dumollard's next-door manner. neighbor. He stated that he had seen the prisoner come home at two in the morning, carrying a trunk.

"He muttered 'Hardi! hardi!' at the door, and was let in. The next day, he said to Madame (the female prisoner), 'Aha, I have got the watchword! I shall avail myself of Monsieur's absence to call when it suits me! Then I asked what he did abroad so late? She grew red, and said dryly, 'He has his own affairs.' 'Oh, messieurs!' said the impressionable little witness bursting into tears. 'I'm fitty-one, I never was in a court of justice before. Now, indeed, I know what frightful affairs this neighbor of mine dealt in !"

The seventeenth witness, Dr. Montvenoux detailed the autopsy of the body of Marie Bussod, stating his belief that she had been buried alive.

Hereupon, the prisoner's counsel rose for the first time.

"I desire," he said, " to know the witness." precise reason for this presumption. We have horrors enough to contend with, without this crowning atrocity. The opinions of the medical witnesses has already created a most painful sensation."

Dr. Moutvenoux alleged, as his chief reasons, that the wound was not mortal, nor even severe; that a clod of outer earth—not that which formed the sub-soil—was grasped in the hand; and that the teeth were set, as if in agony.

The Court now adjourned for a few min-The Court now adjourned for a few minutes. Dumollard took a huge lump of bread and cheese from his pocket, and began devouring it with the appoint of an ogre. At this moment his eye happened to fall on Marie Pichon, who was moving through the court. Faithful to his plan of defence, he called out to her: called out to her:

"All, maneureuse: nut for me you wont not be here now. Come and thank me for rescuing you from those villains."

The girl made no reply; but her sister, who accompanied her, retorted with such warmth and volubility that the dialogue was checked by the officer of the court. A curious little episode occurred in the waiting room. Mario Pichon, who was evidently reearded as the heroine of the hour, and was distinguished by a very pleasing counten-ance and ingenuous manner, had been pre vailed upon by a photographer sent from Paris to sit for her picture. Just as she had taken her position, a respectably-dressed woman forced her way through the crowd, and, running up to Pichon, implored her to forbare, reminding her, in accordance with a popular belief which, it seems existed, that all women who have become associated to the resident manual research. in a marked manner with great criminal pro-cesses—such as Nina Lassave, Fieschi's mistress, "Madame" Lacenaire, and others—

This was Josephte Bussod, sister of the murdered was Josephie Bussol, sister of the murdered girl, who with two other sisters, appeared in deep mourning, and testified the most profound grief. It was necessary that she should identify the clothes of the deceased; and as each familiar garment, stained with blood, was in turn held up, the tears and sobs of the witnesses redoubled, and deeply affected the auditory. The prisoners alone preserved their calmness.

"Oh, perfectly."

"And you, Marianne Dumollard?"

"Of course, I have worn it."

A gentleman sitting near stated that since the discovery of her sister's fate, she had never ceased to accuse herself in this manner as a sort of accumplice.

The procureur-general gave a brief summ ary of the case, claiming the extreme penalty of the law against both the prisoners.

"One," he concluded, "as the participator in all the robberies, the confederate of all the horrors that had preceded them. The other as a habitual, professed assassin, whose life has been one law entered as the confederate of all laws. a natural, projessed assassin, whose the has been one long outrage and defiance of all laws, divine and human. Steeped in infamy—enemy alike of the living and the dead—he has made no single pause in his career of crime, nor can any penalty of man's enactment attain the standard of his deserts."

Dumollard's advecate, M. Lardiere, followed, and commenced his address in a manner dead of the standard of his address in a manner dead of the standard of his address in a manner dead of the standard of his address in a manner dead of the standard of his address in a manner dead of the standard of his address in a manner dead of the standard of his address in a manner dead of the standard of his address in a manner dead of the standard of his address in a manner dead of the standard of his address in a manner dead of the standard of his address in a manner dead of the standard of his address in a manner dead of the standard of his address in a manner dead of the standard of his address in a manner dead of his addres and commenced his address in a manner decidedly French.

"In the seeluded village of Dagneux, lately so obscure, to-day so notorious, there stands fronting the church, a modest tomb, wherein reposes all that is mortal of those I loved best on earth—my father and my mother. Since the period that the exigencies of my professional on earthcareer have forbidden me to kneel at that cherished shrine, memory has daily pictured to me those happy shades, that simple, quiet com-munity, amongst whom the soft joys of earlier youth were tasted."

The excellent advocate in less cuphonious phrase, proceeded to explain that Dumollard, recollecting his name in connection with the place, had written to him, cutreating him to undertake his defence.
"Perhaps it is a first expiation on the part

"Perhaps it is a first explation on the part of this unhappy man," remarked Monsieur L. with almost overwhelming modesty, "that he should have selected my weak aid, instead of that of some more distinguished member of the bar, whose hospitality I am now enjoying."

Monsieur L. made no effort to rebut the evidence, resting his defence on the ground of those social defects which east men like Damollard, unheeded loose upon the world from their eradles; while, at the same time, the growing aversion to capital panisment weak-ens the sole barrier by which the passions of such men are restrained. Shall, then, society wreak mortal vengeance upon a deed for which it is itself in some measure responsible?

The counsel of the female prisoner, M. Villeneuve, delivered a long and very eloquent address, and, having better materials to work with, made a decided impression on the court and jury.

The President gave an impartial summing on, and concluded by submitting to the jury twenty-eight distinct questions, bearing upon the various acts of murder, robbery, &c., charged in the indictment.

Been circulated, that I am not qualified for admission to the bar as an Attorney. I uppend an extract from a despatch from His Grace the Duke of Neuccastle, to His Excellency Governor Douglas, in reply to my petition to Her Majesty the Queen, which was signed by upwards of 100 of the leading inhabitants of Victoria, upwards of 20 Writers to the Signet, and Solicitors, before the Supreme Courts of Scotland, the Members of Parliament for my native city. Edinburgh, and forwarded by the Lord Advocate, first law officer of the Crown for Scotland, and representative of the Scotch Bar in the House of Commons:

[Copy No. S5.]

DOWNING STREET, 7th February, 1862.

TO GOVERNOR DOUGLAS, C. B.,
SIR:—I have received your despatch No. 74 of the 7th of December, 1861.

MR. COPLAND MAS QUALIFIED HIMSELF MY STUDY IN SCOTLAND, FOR FRACTICE AS WRITER TO THE SIGNET, Liney, &c.,

TO THE SIGNET,
I have, &c.,

I have, &c.,

(Signed) "NEWCASTLE."

I have further to add that upon my arrival here in December, 1859, I applied for admission to the Bar, producing at the same time my certificate to the Signet, and also Certificate of Examination by the Professor of Scotch Law in the University of Edinburgh. In January, 1859, I sent my first Petition to Her Majesty, through this Government, (which document I believe never reached England, as I never heard of it afterwards.) In January, 1861, I sent a second, Petition, and in July, 1861, I forwarded a third Petition, in duplicate, that is, one copy through this Government, and the other through the influential parties above mentioned. The despatch of the 7th February has now been in these Government offices for upwards of three months, and, as my legal rights have not yet been accorded to me, it will shortly be my duty to make a fourth appeal to my Queen.
